ANDREW PETERSON PASSES AWAY

WAS GRAYLING'S OLDEST BUSINESS MAN

Andrew Peterson passed away in Ford Hospital, Detroit, Friday, June 29th, from cancer. The remains were brought to Grayling Saturday afternoon and laid to rest in Elmwood cemetery Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Peterson was probably Grayling's oldest active business man, having been in business here nearly fifty years. His jewelry store was well known all over Northern Michigan and was one of the best jewelry stores in any town of a similar size in the state. Mr. Peterson was an expert watchmaker and, although he actively engaged in business for the past six years, he continued his work at the bench right up to the time he became ill.

Andrew Peterson was born in Lolland, Denmark, November 29, 1851. He served his apprenticeship as a watchmaker in Denmark. He was taken into the army as a young man. Two months before his discharge his father died and he was denied the privilege of attending his funeral. Upon his discharge he left for America and began work on a farm in Wisconsin. About six months later he went to Manistee where he worked at the jewelry business. He next came to Grayling.

About two years ago, concluding that he wished to see America he traveled among the western states and in Mexico. He returned to Grayling November 2, 1879 to locate permanently in the jewelry business, opening his store in the building formerly used by Salling Hanson Co. as a hardware store.

He was united in marriage to Miss Margaret Peterson March 28, 1885 and moved into the present home April 22nd of the same year, where the family has resided since. Mr. Peterson has been a member of Grayling Lodge of Odd Fellows, No. 137 for 31 years.

Seven children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Peterson—Herluf, the first died at the age of 7 months and surviving are Holger, E. and Carl W. Grayling, Mrs. Hilda K. Short, Emma, Axel, J. of Detroit and Therese L. of Oklahoma City, all of whom were in attendance at the funeral. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon, Rev. Greenwood of Michigan Memorial church officiating. Brief services were held at the family home and the regular funeral services at the church. The pall bearers were Holger, E., Carl W., Axel and Emma. The casket was borne by Carl W., Emma, Short, Detroit, and Johannes Peterson, Maple Forest. Vocal music was rendered by Mrs. C. G. Clippert and Mrs. Roy O. Milnes.

Interment was in the family lot at Elmwood cemetery. Andrew Peterson was known as one of Grayling's most honorable citizens and during his younger days took an active part in the affairs of the city. During his many years of residence here he had established a reputation for industry and integrity that would be hard to excel in his passing away Grayling has lost one of its most highly esteemed citizens.

He is survived by his widow and the children, as formerly mentioned, and one brother-in-law, Hamming Peterson of Maple Forest. The business places of Grayling were closed from 2 to 3:30 p. m. Monday during the time of the funeral.

CAMPING WITH THE CAMPFIRE GIRLS

Monday broke fair and all was well to start for our trip to Kyle Lake. All met at the school house and then from there we started for the lake.

A car load of girls went first and then came the truck, with several cars of girls following.

As the truck was almost to the lake it had a sad mishap. Several of the tents at the back of the truck caught fire, presumably from a match having been packed or dropped among the tents, and in rocking around on the truck the friction ignited the match and the load.

Upon arrival at camp we found Mr. Edson—Zant, a member of the Michigan National guard, who kindly offered his services in setting up camp. Because of the tents burning we had to sleep in rather crowded quarters the first night.

It started to rain Monday afternoon and continued all night and Tuesday morning was still raining.

The camp sent us more tents on Tuesday and the weather changed and everything was lovely.

The lineup for the day was as follows: Up at six, a dip in the lake; setting up exercises; breakfast and then inspection; games or hikes followed until dinner. After dinner we rested and then washed our clothes. Next came a swimming lesson and another rest period until supper.

On a program for the entertainment of the visitors and rest of the camp, Camp settled down for bed at nine o'clock. Thursday night was ceremonial night and four girls received their second rank of Firemakers; seven girls received first rank of Woodgatherers.

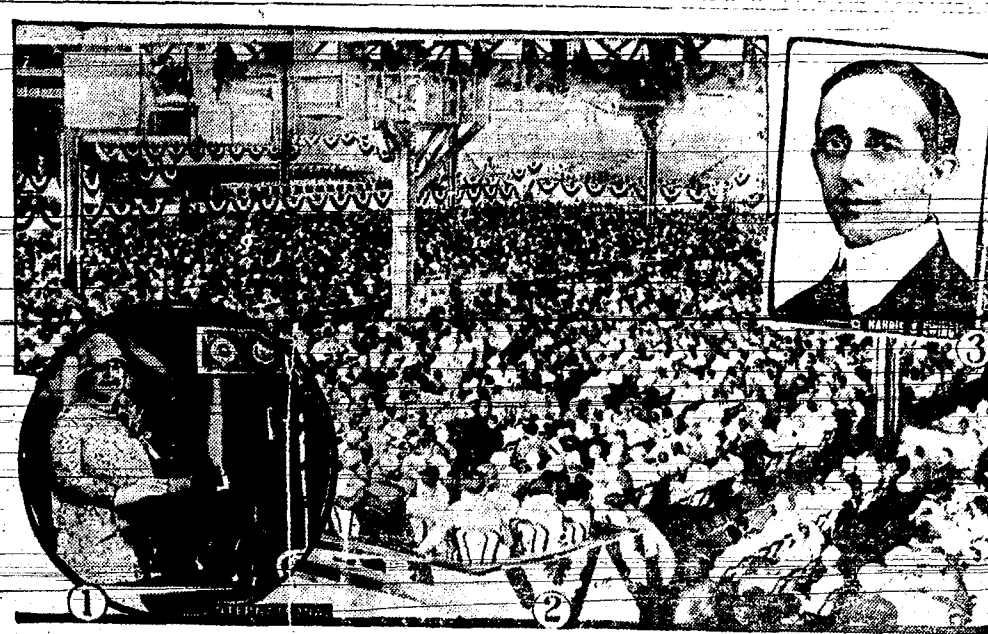

Spiced meat of our days and spices of rain we had a splendid time. And we were all hoping and willing to work so that we may have camp another year.

—Betty Jane Welsh.

HOOVER BEST QUALIFIED FOR PRESIDENT

(By Congressman Roy O. Wood.)

The National Conventions being over, the people are now settling down to appraising the candidates and platforms calmly and can, with well-considered judgment, make their selections in November. As a Republican, I believe the Hoover ticket will meet the most serious conditions of all times and conditions. Two years ago I attended here in Washington a banquet of the National Chamber of Commerce at which about 1500 of the business men of the country were present. Mr. Hoover spoke to that gathering. There was not a farmer present, but he took up and discussed the farm problem and certainly discussed it from the standpoint of a friend of the farmer. He gave those business men to understand clearly and forcefully that the farm problem was one which could not be disposed of with immunities of the hand, but it was a real problem and it had to be met so that the farmers could be placed upon the same sound economic basis as are the business interests. If Mr. Hoover is elected, and it is my opinion that he will be, he is going to demonstrate to the nation that he can and will do more for the farmer than all other administrations we have had in the past. What ever he does will be constructive and helpful. I believe if elected he will step into the White House the best qualified man who has ever attained that position. Certainly no man is more determined to do for every class of people alike than is Mr. Hoover.

CIRCUIT COURT CONVENES TUESDAY

DRAWN

The calendar for the July term of Circuit court that is to convene here Tuesday, July 10th at 1:30 p. m. is one of the lightest in many years.

Three cases appear on the criminal calendar—the People vs. Robert Alexander, Herman Johnson and Carl Thurston, each for violation of the prohibition law.

Two cases appear among the jury cases as follows: Hazen Keene vs. Theodore Callahan and Joseph Belski, and John Maloo vs. Charles H. Marker. The former case arose out of an auto accident that occurred about a year ago, and is for damages. The Maloo-Marker case is to recover damages for injuries received in a case of assault and battery a year or longer ago.

Divorce cases predominate among the cases on the chancery calendar. Lena M. Clothier seeks divorce from her husband, Ernest E. Clothier. Likewise Mary E. Pratt vs. Daniel Pratt, and Gladys M. Wilcox vs. Glenn A. Wilcox. One other case on the chancery list is that of the American State Bank vs. James E. Kellogg, foreclosure of mortgage.

No jury has been impaneled for this term of court. Accordingly only the chancery cases can be tried. It is expected that most of the cases will clear at least a part of the cases on the criminal calendar.

202D COAST ARTILLERY DUE HERE SAT.

SUPPLY TRAIN ARRIVED WED. JULY 4TH

The 202d Coast artillery regiment, Illinois National guard, of Edgewater Beach, Chicago, is due to arrive here Saturday afternoon. They will be here for two weeks of intensive training. Machine gun and light anti-aircraft artillery batteries compose the 202d regiment.

The advance guard of the regiment arrived at the afternoon of July 4th and consisted of an entire train of artillery wagons, artillery ordnance pieces and other equipment, and three sleepers. About 100 officers and men were aboard.

The 202d is to occupy the region that is used by the 11th Field Artillery regiment of M. N. G., which is close to the rifle and artillery ranges. The people will remember well the spectacular program of last year's training period of this regiment and no doubt there will be just as much entertainment for spectators as before. However the training is real business with this organization, and the officers and men put in long hours of hard work. One of the interesting features of last year's camp was the search light that seemed to penetrate almost impregnable distances. The regiment is boasting of still greater search light this year, one that will reach fully double the distance of the former one. And it is equipped with a sound receiver that is able to detect the sound of airplanes in the dark and which automatically directs the rays of the light upon the plane.

The 202d is the finest and best equipped coast artillery regiment in the entire National guard system of the country. The officers and men are not strangers this year and we know they will be cordially received by the people of Grayling.

India's Plague of Beggars

It has recently been stated that at the latest twelfth-year fair at Madras, the road from the city to the bathing place—a distance of two and a half miles—was lined with religious beggars, sitting shoulder to shoulder. Each had an attendant sitting in front soliciting alms for his master.

WHERE'S THE OL' TIME PEP?

We would like the home owner show a proper pride in the industry that during the last year we have gone through a hard trying period. And now we need moral support from every individual to make the city move up a notch. We have heard more about what a live, wide awake town Grayling has been and how it has slipped. So much so, that our neighbors and every one else are talking it along with ourselves, until we have done untold damage. Let us forget it, let everyone get behind and boost. Let us help the fellow who is trying to put things over that helps your town.

Now is the time to start and keep going. We were at one time a lot of good booster known all over as live wires. What has happened? Look at your downtown today. See the improvements. What does it all mean? Let us stop and think about it and then wake up to the fact that we have been just a little bit slow, and it is up to us everyone to put us back on the old home town, the merchants, the manufacturers, the city and the home owner. This means everyone from the fellows who get their kick out of our bankers. From labor to finance. One is no good without the other. Roll over and wake up. Let us go everybody together!

What's the matter? "It's a kind stranger to a Grayling man, you lost?" "No" was the thoughtful answer. "It ain't lost, it's here; here in Grayling, but I like to know where the old time pep and punch that we used to have here has wandered to."

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Democrats Pick Smith and Robinson as Leaders and Adopt Dry Plank.

IT WAS all "Al" Smith at the Democratic convention. The friends of the New York governor had the situation in hand at all times.

Alfred E. Smith of New York and Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas were chosen the standard bearers of the Democratic party in the coming campaign. When the first roll call ended Smith was 644 votes short of the 734 2/3 necessary to nominate. Ohio led the switches that rolled up the governor's total to 8493.

Jim Reed, Smith's outstanding rival for the nomination, took the platform and summoned all factions of the party to unite in support of the nominee. The naming of "Al" Smith was merely putting the official stamp on the expressed choice of a vast majority of the party.

The opposition which napped on Houston with the determination to fight the New York governor to the last ditch soon discovered they did not have a chance.

The title toward Joe Robinson for second place on the ticket started even before the convention was opened. One ballot was enough.

plank in the party platform were disappointed. After a bitter controversy for days in the committee, a plank was adopted upon which declares for enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment. The plank sharply criticizes the Republican administration for what is described as a failure to enforce the dry laws and also for placing "political machines" in enforcement positions, thus making of prohibition a political football.

The platform pledges the party to establish a farm relief policy modeled upon the federal reserve system. Two outstanding paragraphs read:

"Adoption of a federal farm board to assist the farmer and stock raiser in the marketing of their products as the federal reserve board has done for the banker and business man."

"Credit aid by loans to co-operative producers at least as favorable a basis as the government aid to the merchant marine."

The Democratic plank does not mention Mr. Navy-Hansen nor the equalization act.

However, it does mention the principle of the equalization act. It pledges the fostering and development of co-operative marketing associations through appropriate government aid.

When it pledges the party to an earnest endeavor to solve this problem of the distribution of the cost of dealing with crop surpluses over the marketed units of the crop whose producers are benefited by such assistance.

Other high spots of the platform were:

Thunclation of Republican corruption. Further reduction in taxation by limiting debt retirement to sinking fund requirements.

Imposition of tariff duties which will permit effective competition in surplus against monopoly and at the same time produce a fair revenue for the support of the government.

Criticism of foreign policies of the Republican administration. Curbing of the issuance of injunctions in labor disputes as sought by organized labor.

Condemnation of excessive campaign expenditures. Development of the American merchant marine. Strict enforcement of anti-trust laws.

The keynote speech of Claude G. Bowers was an appeal for harmony and a united Democracy. The fiery orator from New York stirred the convention to wild bursts of enthusiasm.

Michelson Memorial Church

John Wilfred Greenwood, Minister

July 8, 1928.

At 10:30 a. m. the pastor will speak on the theme "The Choice of Trails." Have you ever tried to look at life from the point of view of a man several decades of age and faced with death? If so, do you think that you have out of your life? If not, to spend in worship with others? If one hour of worship in the church is a bore to you now, how can you enjoy eternity in company with the saints in praising God and doing His service? Too many of us are coming to old age to realize then "the tragedy of having missed it."

At 8:00 p. m. the pastor will speak on the subject "Mere and Scarc." You will enjoy this message from the Book. Come with us and we will do thee good.

She Is Not Dead, She Is Just Away

(My mother, who passed to life—June 23, 1928 at 6:00 a. m.)

The birds were singing matin songs.

All nature seemed jubilant.

When mother went away.

There were no tears or bitterness.

No fear nor aching loss.

When angels crowned dear mother mine.

And look away her cross.

With angels' song to thrill her heart.

And God her tears to dry;

For her it was not bitter pain.

Nor was it death to die.

Alas, my heart is hurt with grief.

Hope's fountain runneth low!

But, O my Father, willst thou back.

Love dare not have it so.

With robes made white in Christ's own blood.

And palms within her hand.

And angels' songs upon her ear.

In heaven's gloryland.

—J. W. Greenwood.

CHEBOYGAN HAS NEW FLYING FIELD.

Cheboygan has provided a landing field for airplanes. The field was recently completed when the Stinson-Detroit plane, with three passengers from Cleveland, Ohio, landed for a visit to the city and environs. With in a short time another new Stinson-Detroit, landed on the field. The visitors complimented Cheboygan upon its promptness in providing a field. This city is planning, according to Mr. Al Weber to enlarge the field so that any reasonable demands made upon its accommodations will be available.

Is THIRTY the Love? Deadline.

Elise Janda holds a unique place in the hearts of her countrymen. She is one of the most popular entertainers in the world. Her early successes, as star of "The Belle of New York," "The Fortune Teller," "The Duchess," "The Vanderbilt Cup," "The Hysteria," and numerous other plays, were entirely eclipsed by the personal triumphs she secured when she undertook to write her own play, manage it and star in it. During the war she provided the animated men with such entertainment, such sparkling humor, that she endeared herself to them forever.

By ELISE JANIS

I have never envied a philosopher his power to pillow.

The greatest moments of my life have been the ones I could not understand.

And now after reading Mr. Durant's soul stirring statement that no man can have after thirty I feel a great sympathy for all men over thirty, but for Mr. Durant.

I would like to take his hand in mine and ask him gently what happened to him when he was twenty-nine?

Or perhaps I should ask what did not happen to him that has made him choose thirty as the crucial age when all men give up loving and start lying?

Because certainly most of the men I know who are labeled great lovers are over thirty—not much over, and if they have their way it will be years before they move on from what is known as the early thirties.

Is it possible that because they don't love they know how to love so well?

I can think of three men—if I'm not too conceited—who have been on my side of thirty.

And if these men did not love or at least feel all the symptoms, then I'm ready to hand over all the palms I've been lucky enough to collect for doing imitations for that trio.

They can divide them while I, with my pride in the dust, will be heard muttering through my teeth:

"They ain't done right by me, Maw! they was only lettin' on!"

I believe Mr. Durant really said men over thirty are incapable of falling in love.

Well! Maybe the men I have in mind now and certainly had in heart at different times, didn't fall—maybe they just strove in. I can only say that their service was satisfactory and to me, in my utter ignorance of philosophy and its "apparents," they seemed just as capable of being in love as if they lay flat or even pushed into that delightful state.

Mr. Durant said by now he meant true devotion. Ah! now there's the catch, true devotion!

Oh, he devoted means his I understand. He devoted his time, attention, flowers, fruit or what haven't you, to some one.

Certainly a man of a certain age and a more certain salary can do that better than a younger one.

But true devotion by true Mr. Durant means absolute fidelity, then I'll agree that he's right, only I wouldn't let any age limit.

Don't misunderstand, I do not mean that all men are unfaithful, but if it is accepted that "As a man grows old, so he," then I believe true devotion, though much more talked about than the daily kind, is just about as rare.

I have been asked whether I think a woman can fall in love after thirty.

Of course, I take the average woman as long to reach thirty that she's apt to be first from building out bladders, but being one whose years have been added up by experts who remember the date of my debut as a star along with the dates of the Johnstown flood, Chicago fire, Japanese earthquake and other catastrophes, and having very little chance of doing any subtle subtracting, I am here to say that any woman who cannot fall in love after thirty ought to be psychoanalyzed, vaccinated or have her tonsils removed.

Practice makes perfect, and sometimes perfect bliss. To many women, love affairs under thirty can be classed as dress rehearsals.

Certainly after thirty both men and women demand more of love than in extreme youth, that divine period before the children of time and love exist. Please notice I do not mention the heart in the combination for I believe the heart is about the last organ to let us down.

There are surely men and women of sixty whose hearts still flutter at thoughtful attentions, kind words, and friendly smiles, but to love with the heart alone must be like trying to fly.

plane possessing only a rubber to guide it and wings to fly with it. It could only rise to the sky. My theory is that at eighteen the heart in its youthful enthusiasm leads here and there, the body following faithfully, the mind saying I should worry!—this is not my affair!

Then at about twenty-five, the body says to the heart, "Pay a lot of attention to me, I won't always be as beautiful as I am. I'd like something definite. The heart says: Oh! come on, let's just browse along. It's such fun. And the mind says: It's about time I stepped in. These two are making a slip out of me.

Personally, I'm going to keep on falling in love just as long as I can, find some one to whom I can love, and may not love, but it certainly is extremely pleasant.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON BUILDING AN INCOME

As Aunt Emmy came out of the savings bank she met young George Oliver.

"Well, well," he said, "it's funny to see you coming out of a savings bank, Aunt Emmy. I thought only poor folks like me had money in savings banks—people like you just clip coupons."

"Have you a savings bank account?" countered Aunt Emmy.

"Well, er—I suppose I haven't," he admitted. "You see, it's hard to save money when you're first married. Somehow there never seems to be enough money to go 'round—but alone to put in a savings bank."

"You never will have if you don't get started," interrupted Aunt Emmy.

"You should make your weekly savings deposit, no matter how small, the first claim on your salary after paying your bills."

"I'll make up my mind to do that," said young George, "but I put away a certain sum regularly."

"You can't," said Aunt Emmy.

"It is more a habit than you would suppose," Aunt Emmy continued.

"Any one can do it if he is willing to let other things wait. I began putting a little money in a savings bank years ago when it was no joke to save a few pennies. I remember what a wonderful thrill I got the first time I saw my interest entered in my bank book."

"There was money that my money had earned all by itself. After that it was sort of game with me to put a certain sum in the bank, even if I had to do without things I would have enjoyed having. Now I realize what it means to keep your money busy earning all the time so I continue to put a little in the savings bank regularly and, after it accumulates, I draw some out and invest in safe securities that pay a higher rate of interest than savings."

"All the time, you see, the money is working for me."

"Of course, when the sum is small, it earns little, but if you start young, it grows big."

"I'm sure it will, but I'm not sure it will grow up into a real investment, they call a real income."

"I never thought of it in that light," said George.

"Try it—and see for yourself how it works," urged Aunt Emmy. "Have you ever thought how nice it would be to have a few dollars ready for use in case of an emergency? Accidents and illnesses do happen. Or suppose you had an opportunity to buy something you knew you could sell at a profit and you had to let the opportunity slip for the lack of a few hundred dollars. You and Molly would never miss five dollars a week—and if you had it, it would be a real income."

"You're right, I would," exclaimed George. "I'll talk to Molly tonight."

Aunt Emmy, and see if we can't revise our expenditures."

"There would be a whole lot less family trouble and worry over money matters if every young couple did the same thing early in life," Aunt Emmy said. "Start young!" is the magic slogan.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

As the Republican party on its record of eight years' administration of the country's affairs.

The permanent chairman, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, set off some fireworks when he declared that there would be no "wet" plank in the platform. He made a plea for religious tolerance, saying "Jefferson gloried in the Virginia statute providing for religious freedom." This started one of the most noisy of the many demonstrations that marked this convention.

SECRETARY OF STATE KELLOGG has called upon the governments of 14 nations to sign a revised and final draft of his projected anti-war treaty. The text of the slightly modified peace pact, together with a covering note, has been delivered to Great Britain and her dominions, together with France, Italy, Germany, Japan and the Locarno powers.

Each of the interested governments was urged to sign on the dotted line at once and to accept the treaty as written without qualification or reservation. This government Mr. Kellogg stated, is prepared to sign the treaty as it now stands without reservations. Mr. Kellogg brushes aside most of the objections, advanced by France and other powers, and states frankly that his examination of their replies to his first note, leading them to cooperate in the negotiation of a treaty for the repudiation of war, has revealed no reasons why they should not adhere to the final draft of the treaty at once. He described the changes in the treaty as slight.

In making public his plan placing the matter of approving the treaty draft squarely up to the interested powers, State department officials made it known that 12 of the nations have signified their willingness to sign the treaty at once.

France and Italy are understood to be the only nations whose representatives have displayed reluctance toward complete acceptance of the Kellogg proposal.

The confidence felt by Mr. Kellogg in the ultimate success of his peace efforts is expressed in the official words of his invitation.

"My government is confident that as the nations of the world are united in the signing of this treaty, so they will be united in the signing of the final draft of the treaty at once." The Kellogg plan, which has been signed by 12 nations, is a simple procedure, and being simple, it is hoped, will be adopted by all nations. ROBERT W. STEWART, chairman of the Senate Committee on Commerce and Manufactures, today announced that he would call for a hearing on the proposed Duce-Schmidt bill, which would allow the government to take over the production of certain goods in the event of a war. Mr. Stewart said that he would call for a hearing on the bill at the earliest possible date.

HERBERT H. HARRIS, the Republican candidate for President, today announced that he would call for a hearing on the proposed Duce-Schmidt bill, which would allow the government to take over the production of certain goods in the event of a war. Mr. Harris said that he would call for a hearing on the bill at the earliest possible date.

Its downfall dates in reality to 1914 and the war, when the French, although wanting with the blood that poured from the open wound in the country's side, never felt inclined to tax themselves, as other warring countries did. They paid for the war with loans. Afterward they hid behind the illusion that "Germany will pay."

THE sensational mailbag robbery, involving an estimated loss of $500,000, which was discovered on the arrival in London of the mail landed at Southampton from the steamer Leviathan, is still shrouded in mystery. The mailbags arrived in London with seals intact and the robbery was not discovered until the post office officials prepared to sort the letters.

The mail was under supervision of the United States sea postal staff throughout the voyage and was landed at Southampton under strict armed supervision. It is believed certain the bags were not tampered with after they left the ship.

When the bags were opened at London it was found that the registered letters had been split open and all negotiable papers taken.

CHARGING that the Aluminum Company of America, its officers and others entered into a conspiracy to create an aluminum monopoly in this country to the detriment of others engaged in the industry, the Basch Machine Tool company of Springfield, Mass., has filed suit in the Federal court at Boston against the company.

The plaintiff company names Andrew W. Mellon, James B. Duke and others as having participated in the alleged conspiracy, but does not name them defendants.

The bill alleges that, although Mellon resigned as a director of the Aluminum Company of America in 1920, he continued to participate in the company's management of its affairs and has been a "dominating factor therein."

BECAUSE he issued orders to his subordinates to fire on all cars not stopping for liquor inspection, a grand jury at Buffalo, N. Y., has held Benjamin Frank Beck, commander of the coast guard station at Fort Niagara, N. Y., partially responsible for the shooting of Jacob D. Hanson of New York. Hanson was shot early on the morning of May 6 while he was driving back to the barracks from a visit to Lewiston, Jennings and Drew, coast guardsmen, were patrolling the road on the lookout for liquor smugglers. They claim they ordered Hanson to stop and he refused.

JOHNNY FARRELL won the open 100 yard championship by defeating Eddie Jones in a play-off of a tie by the stroke at Olympia fields, Chicago. Jones and Farrell were tied for first place at 24. The play-off was one of the most exciting and dramatic 50 yard matches ever played anywhere. Jones and Farrell were tied for first place at 24.
